

2005 Annual Report

D E N S H Ō

Fumiko Uyeda Groves (front right) sits with her fellow students at a Seattle elementary school in 1939. Ms. Uyeda Groves is also pictured in the inset image while participating in a Densho interview almost sixty years later. Her life history interview and photograph collection are featured in the Densho Digital Archive (www.densho.org/archive).

Dear Densho Supporter,

2005 was a very good year for Densho. Thanks to the support of many individuals and organizations, Densho was able to take large steps forward in our preservation and education efforts. Below are a few highlights from 2005.

Sites of Shame Website - Densho created and published an innovative website documenting 69 facilities in the United States that detained Americans of Japanese ancestry during World War II. The beautifully designed Sites of Shame website features an interactive map, rich multimedia content and much more. Thousands of people, including students and teachers, have already utilized this important resource.

Nonprofit Innovation Award - Densho was the winner of the first-ever NPower Innovation Award for creative use of technology. The panel of business and nonprofit executives selected Densho over dozens of other Puget Sound organizations for Densho's groundbreaking use of technology in historic preservation and education.

Densho Archive Partners - In 2005, Densho expanded the content of our digital archive with the addition of key interviews from partner organizations and individuals. Interviews about the Japanese Canadian incarceration were collected by the Japanese Canadian Cultural Centre in Toronto. Stories of the California experience came from the National Japanese American Historical Society in San Francisco and the Japanese American Museum of San Jose. Densho also added interviews conducted for the two award-winning films "Rabbit in the Moon" by Emiko and Chizuko Omori and "Conscience and the Constitution" by Frank Abe.

Tribute to World War II Japanese American Veterans - Densho partnered with the Seattle Nisei Veterans Committee to commemorate the legacy of Japanese American World War II veterans with a Veterans Day Tribute, attended by over 1,000 people. The program featured a keynote address by Senator Daniel Inouye and a multimedia presentation of interviews and historic photographs from the Densho Digital Archive.

I would like to thank all of Densho's donors and friends for making this important work possible. We truly appreciate your continued support.

With warm regards,

Tom Ikeda
Executive Director
